Certification Levels for Elements (6.3.1)

For versions prior to 6.3.1, see Certifying an Element (prior versions)

Version 6.3.1 introduces a more granular method for certifying elements by creating various Levels of Certification.

This article covers:

- 1. Certification without Levels
- 2. Default Certification Levels
- 3. Add a New Certification Level
- 4. Setting the Certification Level on Elements
- 5. Objects that Allow Setting Levels of Certification
- 6. Where Certification Levels are Displayed
- 7. Where Certification Levels are available for Filtering

NOTE:

- Certification Levels only apply to Elements
- Datasets, User Maps, and Data Sources still use the older "Yes/No" settings: see Certifying Objects Other Than Elements

1. Certification without Levels (prior to 6.3.1)

Certified	• Yes O No by Anna Kennedy on 2021-10-13 23:1	3:01
	Choose "no" to change status to "Uncertified"

The option to select Status of Certified (Yes) or Uncertified (No) has been supported since Release 5, but this function has been expanded in Release 6.3.1 to allow various Levels of Certification.

2. Activate Certification Levels (new in 6.3.1)

• Note that you can Add/Change the Certification Levels prior to Activation (Steps 3 & 4)

- 1. Enter "cert" in the Search field to limit choices
- 2. Set ENABLE_CERTIFICATION_FILTERING to "Y" to allow filtering on the Homepage by Certification Level
- 3. Set ENABLE_CERTIFICATION_LEVELS to "Y" to enable the Levels option
- 4. MARK UNCERTIFIED_ELEMENTS is no longer supported
- 5. [Commit Changes] and your new Levels will be applied

NOTE: All elements that were previously set to Certify = "Y" will now be set to the Level designated as Default.

3. View Default Certification Levels

- 1. Message showing how to enable Certification Levels if they are currently Disabled
- Three Levels are installed with Release 6.3.1. Bronze is the lowest level and Gold is the highest
- 3. You can modify any of the existing Levels, or delete any Level except the one designated as Default.
- 4. Select [+ New Certification Level] to open the Add popup

4. Add a New Certification Level

- 1. Input a Name that is meaningful to your organization
- 2. Optionally, add a Description
- 3. Pick a Color by clicking a square on the color chart
- 4. Indicate if this Level is the Default. There can only be one Default Level. When Certification Levels are activated, all "yes" certifications will be reset to this Level
